Kevin and Nancy ARE MAKING A World OF DIFFERENCE

Defining success means something different to all of us. Its true meaning goes far beyond the simple dictionary description of “attaining fame, wealth, or social status”. For clients Nancy and Kevin Shoemaker, making a positive difference in the lives of others is a major ingredient to real success. I Run the States was just the answer the Shoemaker’s were looking for to positively impact the lives of others while providing the motivation they needed to focus on their own goals. This month enjoy the Shoemaker’s story and choose to make a positive impact, set some goals and have an extraordinary September!

“We are Nancy and Kevin Shoemaker. We have been working together on a goal to keep healthy. Part of what we do to help reach this goal is running. Our ambitions are leading us to run a half marathon in every state. With the pandemic, mostly all our scheduled events were cancelled. However, we learned about an initiative, offered through I Run the States, involving a virtual run, and fund-raising opportunity, to help people across the globe have access to clean and safe drinking water. I Run the States offers “Running for Unity,” a virtual race with proceeds directed toward the drinking water initiative. Running for Unity assists those in need in Sierra Leone, West Africa. With our scheduled races being cancelled this opportunity, with an awesome focus, provided us with some extra motivation.”

If you or someone you know is an Everyday Extraordinary person, we would love to share your inspiration. Simply email us your short story along with a supporting photograph for a chance to be featured in an upcoming newsletter.
